CHINESE IMMIGRATION.

The Restriction Act Introduced by Hon. Mr. Chapleau.

Messrs. Baker, Shakespeare Gordon and Homer Endorse the Measure.

In the House of Commons on the 2nd inst., Hon. J. A. Chapleau moved the House into committee on resolutions respecting Chinese immigration, and in doing so referred to the labors of the commission appointed last year to enquire into and report on this interesting subject. That commission was the outcome of an assurance given by the government during the previous session in respect to repeated complaints from the people of the Pacific coast, through their representatives, that the interests of that country were being injured by the presence of the Chinese element. An obstacle in the way of the government in attempting to deal with this question presented itself in the fact that a commercial treaty existed between England and China, and that any restrictive regulations adopted by the Canadian government might impair the relations existing under that treaty; but before taking up the question the government had received an assurance from the government of England that

WE WERE PERFECTLY FREE

to deal with the subject as we deemed expedient. There were two classes of objectors to the Chinese. Some complained that they were a degraded, uncivilized race. Others urged that they were invading all the paths of industry, and were injuring our own workmen by placing their cheap labor in competition with the labor of the whites. With regard to the character of the Chinamen, he would say that the evidence placed before him went to show that, though there were bad Chinamen, the race was not as a race vicious. If they were guilty of the immoralities imputed to them, nothing would shield them from summary justice, nor were their habits or their way of living so outrageous as to entitle them to be despised. They certainly in California. They had gone into the vine growing, gold mining, and land recovering, and in Canada they had labored and had proved themselves to be docile laborers on the Canadian Pacific railway. Their work on the great public enterprises which would only be carried to completion by cheap labor, had been useful and necessary. It could not be denied, however, that the Chinamen were a better instrument than Europeans in the hands of a builder, especially on great works involving millions of expenditure. He believed that the peace of British Columbia would be threatened unless some restrictive legislation were passed by this Parliament. At the same time there was a good deal to be said in support of the white workman, who argued in this way: I have my wife and children to support, why should I, a tax payer and a good member of the community, be subjected to the competition of men who can live almost on a straw a day, and who have no wife and no family to provide for? Yielding to this argument, having a desire to encourage white immigration, and knowing that if Canada became a country in which the white man could not earn a sufficiency it must lose rather than gain population, the government proposed the legislation now before the House.

DID NOT WORK ANY CHEAPER THAN OTHERS

THE MEASURE WAS NOT DESPOTIC NOR CRUEL.

It would extinguish undesirable immigration, and would not deter merchants and those who created a trade between Canada and China from coming here. It provided for the payment of fifty dollars by each Chinaman entering the country either by land or by water, no vessel to be allowed to carry more than one Chinaman to every fifty tons burden into any Canadian port. Other provisions were inserted looking to the adoption of proper sanitary arrangements amongst the Chinese population and the employment of an interpreter. He thought the provisions of the bill would meet the approval of the people not only of British Columbia, but of the whole Dominion.

MR. SHAKESPEARE

expressed great pleasure at the prospect which the people of British Columbia had of being, to a certain extent, relieved from the curse under which they had suffered. While the measure was not all that some people desired, he regarded it as the beginning of better days. He pointed out that when the railway was finished a great number of Chinamen would be out of work and the evil would be greater than it is today. It had been said that there was no leprosy in this country. The reason that conclusion was arrived at was, he believed, because the persons who could give information on the subject, who knew of cases of leprosy, would not appear before the Commission because they considered it useless and disapproved of it.

MR. E. CROWE BAKER

said that one would have supposed, from the speech of the Secretary of State, that he was opposing instead of proposing the measure, nine-tenths of his speech being pro-Chinese. He believed that the majority of the persons who appeared before the Commission and gave evidence favorable to the Chinese, were employers of Chinese labor, or were otherwise influenced. He thought it was quite natural for the people of British Columbia to feel annoyed at not being notified of the intended visit of the Commissioners and of the opportunity afforded to put upon British Columbia members, who were well qualified by long experience to give testimony on the subject. He contended that the people in other parts of the Dominion besides British Columbia had advocated the exclusion of the Chinese. The morals of the Chinese were so bad that it was impossible with decency to describe them. The presence of the Chinese moreover had been prejudicial to the interests of the industrial classes, nor had it been of any advantage to the business of the country, for each Chinaman sent home on an average $25 a month. In British Columbia the strongest restrictive measures were demanded. That such should be the case was not a matter for surprise, seeing the case with which Chinamen were imported. Only last month two vessels brought eight hundred Mongolians across to Victoria. He supported the proposal to require a fee of $50 from every Chinaman entering the Dominion, but he thought the government should restrict the number of Chinamen to arrive per vessel to one to every hundred tons instead of one to every fifty tons.

MR. CHAPLEAU

did not accept the suggestion. He explained that the payment of a restrictive duty would apply to Chinese coming in from the United States as well as directly from China.

MR. GORDON

thought it was quite a compliment to British Columbia that the House should, at this late stage of the session, listen to a discussion of this question and devote a period of time to legislating upon it. He congratulated the Dominion government upon its promise to pass the measure, which though not so restrictive as some might desire, was a move in the right direction.

MR. J. A. R. HOMER

said that while he believed in 1884 that an act restricting the importation of Chinese labor in British Columbia would have been premature, owing to the unfinished condition of the Canadian Pacific railway, he believed the time had now come when such restriction should be adopted. At the present time, with the railway construction for the present nearly ended, there was a surplus of labor in his province. The immigration of Chinamen had been very large and threatened to convert the province into a Chinese colony, unless some restriction such as was proposed should be adopted.

The resolutions were reported, and a bill founded on them introduced.

A resolution providing for the payment of a Chinese interpreter was adopted in committee of the whole House. The bill formally introduced was withdrawn.

The Latest Mining News—Holiday Festivities—Accident, &c., &c.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

MINING.

Many of the hydraulic companies have now quit piping from scarcity of water, and cleaning up has commenced. As the season progresses the opinion prevails that the output of gold from this vicinity will exceed that of the past two or three years. The Walker Gulch Co., of which Jas. McCann is the resident representative, is panning out well. Jim's pertinacity and grit deserves nothing less. In the Koza, Messrs. House, M. G. Kinney and Wilson have struck good pay up Conkling Gulch. The Conkling Gulch Co., Messrs. Ferguson, McDermott and Coutts, have made a monster stride towards their expected Eldorado. The Nason Co., Antler Creek, will soon recommence operations in that redoubtable claim. They have secured a foreman, Mr. Geo. Cowan, M. P. P. We believe the company have done well to procure the advantage of Mr. Cowan's lengthy mining experience.

FESTIVITIES.

This being the busy season, beside the display of bunting, the firing of salutes and the general suspension of business, Dominion Day was very mildly celebrated in Barkerville. During the still evening hours, from a piazza on Main street, our courteous brass band discoursed sweet music to appreciative citizens. All passed off quietly. A few of our "bloods" forestalled the first of July by a grand old-time jamboree. Boys will be boys, for we are all jolly Britons.

MISCELLANEOUS.

James Craig, our enthusiastic "butcher boy" and esteemed fellow-citizen, met with a severe accident last Saturday while rounding up a bullock for the shambles. Careering through the bushwood over the mountain side, his horse stumbled and Jim was thrown upon the furthest stump. Result—a severe concussion and several broken ribs. Glad to think he will very soon be around again.

Our streets have been pretty thoroughly cleansed by the bursting of the bulkhead and the consequent overflow of water and tailings; still there are a few vile spots from which daily proceeds the most offensive smell that ever offended nostril. These places are owned too by "enterprising" citizens—white men. We hope the creek may soon be turned through these Augean stables.

Barkerville, July 3, 1885.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. W. Gowan, of Portland; and T. O'Neill, contractor on the island railway; are at the Oriental.

Mr. T. F. Sinclair, contractor on the C. P. R., returned by the mainland steamer to Shuswap this morning.

John Schrimfel and wife, San Diego, J. F. Williams and S. C. Stills and wife, The Dalles, are at the Occidental.

Mr. Carrol, wife of Capt. Carrol, of the Ancon, arrived by the Olympian today and will remain here until the return of the Alaska steamer.

Passengers by the Olympian to-day were: M Redmond, W A Stevens, S U Stile and wife, Mrs E H Miller, Mrs M Endy, D Robills, T Baker, D Florida, G Cleveland, Mrs Carrol, Mrs Fitzgerald and 3 daughters, Miss Nicholson, T Fitzgerald, Mrs Van Bolton and daughter, C Flegal, M Munroe, D Fay, Col R J Stevens and son, J J Williams, J Schrimple and wife, J Murphy, E W Gowen, A Klint, W Forbes, F Davis and wife, and 2 Chinese.

Burglars' Work.

The premises of Mr. T. Thompson, gunsmith, on Yates street, were burglarised on Wednesday night, and guns and pistols to the value of $271.50 carried away. Geo. Sifferlin and Thos. Martin were arrested by Officers Livesay and McNeill on suspicion of being the culprits. The guns were found hidden in a box at Trahey's shipyard. The prisoners were arraigned in police court this morning and remanded until Tuesday next.

Sealing Operations.

Captain R. Sharp, who has been in command of the Adelaide on the Fraser, left the city on Wednesday, and crossed over to Departure Bay. His friends are greatly surprised at his departure. The Captain's accounts with his employers, the Peoples' Line, are understood to be all right, and he was not indebted elsewhere to any extent.

North Cedar School.

At the examination of this school the roll of honor was awarded as follows:—Proficiency, Samuel Piddick; deportment, Margaret McKinley; punctuality, Elizabeth Wilkinson. The scholars showed, by the readiness and correctness with which they answered questions, that they had progressed with great rapidity under the tuition of Mr. E. Kaye.

—Complaint is made by passengers arriving by the Sound steamer of the nuisance of runners. Ladies have to crowd through the close ranks of fifteen or twenty men who are most pertinacious in soliciting "fares." The police should see that passengers have free egress from the wharf.

THE WIDE WORLD.

THIS DAY'S DESPATCHES

Proceedings of the House of Commons—Another Crisis Certain.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 10.—The government after much meditation has decided that it cannot support Mr. Parnell's motion of inquiring into the conduct of officials in the Maamtrassa an Barbaville cases. This decision will probably result in the Parnellites withdrawing their support from the government which they have hitherto given present government.

The House agreed to the government's proposition to issue forty million pounds in treasury bills to meet the deficits of last and present year.

The debate on the criminal law amendment bill was resumed.

Pall Mall Gazette Excitement Still Continues.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 10, 3 p. m.—The excitement over the Pall Mall Gazette's revelations continues without abatement. The windows and doorways of the Gazette publication office are barricaded, and the police are in control of the surrounding mobs. The Gazette says it receives daily a number of cablegrams from the United States asking about the progress of its exposures. Cardinal Manning has accepted the proposition made by the proprietors of the Pall Mall Gazette to submit a complete proof of all its revelations, including every name and detail, to a party of responsible men which must include Cardinal Manning and Hon. Samuel Morley. The examiners to have the privilege of reporting to the public on the affair as they deem just.

Fresh Trouble between France and China.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, July 10.—The ministry is being strongly urged to annex Annam. The pressure in this direction is almost irresistable that it requires De Freycinet's skill to prevent his colleagues from acting precipitately in the matter. He is adverse to any step that might revive misunderstanding with China and renew France's eastern troubles.

It is reported here that the Black Flags will reinforce annamites in any contest, the latter may decide upon waging against the French.

A Premium on Children.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, July 10.—The Chamber of Deputies this afternoon voted an appropriation of $800,000, to be expended by the state in maintaining and educating every seventh child born to a French family. This action is taken to revive an obsolete law, enacted during the French revolution, in the interest of an increase of the French population. The present enactment applies to either sex, and is confined to children of parents in needy circumstances. An attempt to reject this latter restriction was negatived by a vote of 260 to 121.

The London Abominations.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 10.—In the Commons this afternoon, Grey, Liberal member for south Northumberland, in accordance with his notice of yesterday, asked Cross, Home Secretary, whether he could assure the House that the government had given orders to the police to do their utmost to suppress abominations in London, reported by the Pall Mall Gazette. The Home Secretary replied that the police would use every exertion to suppress the alleged practices. The existing law, supplemented by the criminal law amendment bill, would suffice to bring to justice perpetrators of such abominations.

Impost of Duties Opposed.

Special to THE TIMES.

BRUSSELS, July 10.—The Belgian minister of finance opposes the proposed impost of duties on cattle and corn.

Serious Floods in Austria

Special to THE TIMES.

VIENNA, July 10.—Serious floods are reported in Galecia. Vistula river has risen ten feet, swamping a large portion of the city of Cracow, and the town of Skavina. Many miles of railways have been destroyed.

Mysterious Epidemic in Spain.

Special to THE TIMES.

LISBON, July 10.—A mysterious epidemic has broken out in this city and in various other parts of Portugal. Victims are attacked without warning and are dead within a few minutes after seizure. The disease is a mystery to the doctors who, as yet, have found no effective method of combating it.

France's Estimates Voted.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, July 10.—The Chamber of Deputies to-day voted the expenditure estimates for the coming year.

Cargo of Wheat Damaged.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 10.—The bark Barracouta, at Queenstown, from Portland, Oregon, encountered a gale when off Cape Horn, and one of her hatches was stove in, and she was compelled to jettison six thousand bags of wheat.

The Cholera Scourge.

Special to THE TIMES.

MADRID, July 10.—The total number of cases of cholera reported from all parts of Spain yesterday was 1452, and deaths 680. It is now hoped Madrid will escape the scourge as the disease is rapidly decreasing at present.

Yellow Jack in New Orleans.

Special to THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Dr. Hamilton, of the Marine hospital service, says there is a report in circulation that there are a number of cases of yellow fever in New Orleans. He has not received any official information in regard to the matter as yet, but he is now investigating.

The Green Flag Hoisted.

Special to THE TIMES.

DUBLIN, July 10.—During a band performance to-day at Black Rock the British flag was hauled down and the green flag was hoisted in its place.

No Cholera.

Special to THE TIMES.

TOULOUSE, July 10.—The Prefect, after inquiry, has found no cases of cholera in the department of Aude.

Bankrupt Egypt.

Special to THE TIMES.

CAIRO, July 10.—It is stated that unless action be taken by September 1st, Egypt will be completely bankrupt.

Metropolitan Underground Railway for Paris.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, July 10.—The government has decided to build a Metropolitan railway underground, and has asked an extra credit of 101,500 francs on account of tunnels.

The Pall Mall Gazette's Exposures

LONDON, July 8.—The Pall Mall Gazette, in its unpleasant exposures of vice, plainly states dates and localities. The only concealment is in regard to the names of the rich and titled ruffians who have trafficked in the chastity of women. In many cases these are described with such accuracy that it would be a superfluous piece of information, even to casual readers of newspapers, to add their names. The stories evidently are not fictitious, for the paper challenges libel suits by printing the street numbers of many houses rented and used for the purpose of wealthy debauchees. The owners or occupants of these houses have abundant cause of action against the Pall Mall Gazette, whether the stories are true or false, for the old adage of common law, "The greater the truth the greater the libel," prevails unmodified in England. No suits have yet been begun against the paper, and the presumption is that the parties do not care to risk the publicity which suits for libel would involve.

There is a general impression that the revelations of the Gazette, horrible as they are, in the main are true. The question that remains is whether it is justifiable to parade such sickening details in the public press.

The exposure is the leading topic of conversation on 'change, in clubs, in railway carriages and wherever men meet together.

The editor of the Pall Mall Gazette said, in an interview, that the exposure had not been made without careful advice from learned jurists in regard to every detail, and that he kept not only within the pale of the law, but far within the bounds, which natural and honest indignation would have prescribed. As to the law, he knew he was justified, and as to public opinion, he feared nothing, for he was backed by the highest and best in the land, including Cardinal Manning, the Earl of Shaftsbury, and other eminent men of all denominations.

From Rome to Naples.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The Sun's London special: The people of Rome, and especially tradesmen and real estate owners, are alarmed over an intrigue between the Vatican and the Italian cabinet to secure the removal of the capital from that city. The pope is declared to be urging the cabinet to make Naples the capital of the kingdom, which would leave him more freedom of action in Rome. Depretis, prime minister, is favorably impressed with the proposed removal, but King Humbert has expressed himself as decidedly opposed to it, for practical as well as traditional reasons.

A Circular from Salisbury.

PARIS, July 8.—The Matin is authority for the statement that the Marquis of Salisbury has issued a circular to the powers interested, urging them to ratify the Egyptian financial convention.

FROM FARWELL.

Gossip From the Columbia Crossing—Roads Wanted—Legal News, &c.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FARWELL, July 5, 1885.

Everything is quiet here. East and west, work on the railway is being pushed. Some think that about four months more, barring accident, will bring the ends of the present gap close together; but of course there will be much work afterwards. A large number of men passed through the town yesterday to work on the west side.

The temporary bridge, for passengers and supplies, which is laid over the piers of the railway bridge, has been partly washed away several times. Four or five yesterday fell into the water with a boat. Many think the railway piers are too light and of inferior design. The river has fallen lately, but probably will rise again.

People here hope that the government will open a rough trail hence to the east bank of the Columbia. It would not be expensive, and access to the McCulloch Creek gold region is wanted. The Bell-Barrett party will start to-morrow with horses and try to get through somehow. These men found the rich quartz on that creek. Another party started a week ago, but returned, as one of them accidentally wounded himself.

The steamer from Colville has not been up the river lately. It is said that she is having her steam gear fitted.

The Chief Justice will return to hold a county court here on the 13th. Perhaps he will arrive a few days sooner.

The prisoner, Brown, who was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, escaped from the lock-up here and went down the river in a canoe. He has not yet been caught.

Since the lull caused by the temporary retreat of the mounted police, some of the people here have amused themselves by holding public meetings, on the all engrossing whiskey question; everything being managed in a good-natured regular way. The speakers chiefly were men without land or license, and with an indisposition to pay for either. The solid men, of whom there are many comparatively, obey the law promptly, and attend to their own business. They are pleased with the moderate, firm action of the provincial authorities. The only appeal against a decision of Mr. Sproat was dismissed by the chief justice after argument.

The people have petitioned to have the town incorporated and the good folks already stir their eloquence for the municipal arena.

Messrs. Wilson and Eberts arrived on the 4th. I presume on some law business. The latter having looked in at a liquor meeting on the evening of his arrival was promptly requested to give his views, but did not fall in with the unprofessional proposed method of getting his advice. A speaker caused great amusement by declaring that our worthy magistrate's determination to enforce the law against unlicensed liquor sellers would destroy his chance of being mayor of Farwell.

The weather has been very hot in the afternoons. The people here have cleaned up Front street and dug a public well. Everything is very high priced, except beef, which is twenty-five cents a pound. More in my next. MEREDITH.

J. C. McLAGAN, Manager.

THE trouble between the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk companies in regard to freight and passenger rates has been amicably arranged, and rates restored.

MEMBERS of the Irish parliamentary party have issued an address to Irish electors in England, advising them to vote for Tories in place of Liberals at the coming election.

A DISPATCH from Dongola states that the Monansir tribe made a raid upon Old Dongola and captured 100 camels. The Spagiyeh tribe have given in their submission to the MAHDI.

FORTY thousand hands are thrown out of employment through the mason's strike in Berlin. Masters refuse to negotiate with the men, and are beginning to employ foreign masons to take the places of the strikers.

BEACH offers to make a match with TEEMER for £1000 a side, allowing £200 expenses for the McKeesport man to go to the Parramatta. If TEEMER should beat HANLAN in their coming races he will probably accept the offer. Don't forget to notice the great big "If."

A COMPARISON between the recent budget proposed by Mr. GLADSTONE and that of a century since shows the immense strides made by the British empire within that period, if measured by a tenfold increase in taxation. According to the public journals of May 9, 1785, in the House of Commons CHANCELLOR PITT rose to open the budget for the year. For the navy there was an estimated expenditure of £1,705,307; army, £2,556,263; miscellaneous service, £3,329,836; and other items make up the total, £9,747,303, leaving a deficiency of £422,000, to meet which the following taxes were proposed: Men-servants, £35,000; women-servants, £140,000; retail shops, £120,000; post-horses, £50,000; pawnbrokers, £15,000; salt (alteration), £12,000.

THE importation of American and Canadian cattle into Great Britain, has seriously affected the grazing interests so that with an over production of fruit and vegetables and the unremunerative prices of cereals, the landlords are at their wits' ends to find out a means of getting in returns from their holdings. Many gentlemen are turning their farms into game preserves, and advertisements are now numerous from persons desirous of supplying partridges, pheasants, hares and rabbits. The manager at Elveden (the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh's place) can supply 6000 cock pheasants and 2000 hares. The Elveden estate has been made into a vast game preserve during the last twenty years, but the manor has always been one of the best in Norfolk for pheasant shooting. Elveden was nearly being purchased by the Prince of Wales in 1862, but Sandringham was chosen because the purchase money was so much less.

London Society thus refers to the attempt to prohibit Sunday drinking in the principality of Wales: "We have frequently had occasion to draw attention to the edifying condition of North Wales in respect to so-called illicit drinking on the Sabbath. The present plan in practice among the simple minded Welsh peasantry is to convey large quantities of beer into private houses, there to be retailed for consumption on Sunday. A raid recently made on the houses of a widow and a laborer, resulted in the discovery at the two places of nearly thirty gallons of beer, in which a roaring trade was being more or less secretly pursued. The heavy fines imposed by the Flint magistrates will probably not trouble the widow and the laborer to any great extent; for, as the chairman remarked, 'illicit drinking in private houses is now carried on to such an extent in Wales on Sundays that the owners make small fortunes from the traffic,' as we do not doubt they will continue to do until the preposterous and senseless act, which is the sole cause of all this law-breaking, is repealed. The framers of the iniquitous Welsh Sunday Closing Bill have a prodigious amount of wrong-doing to answer for."

CURRENT OF EVENTS IN ENGLAND.

Those who have watched the current of events in England for the past few weeks must have been struck with the complete change that has taken place in the political parties in that country in their struggle for supremacy. A year ago the languid issues between the Liberals and Conservatives were accepted traditionally as trusts of the respective parties. Generally the policy of the Conservatives abroad was one of aggression and inaction at home while that of the Liberals was pacific foreign relations and reform in domestic matters. As the elections are now approaching it is hard to tell where the leaders of the respective parties will be found. That the Conservative party has experienced a considerable shifting is undeniable, and especially so on the Irish question. Coercion is practicably dead. The accession of the present government to power, while denunciations of a proposition to renew the crimes act were still upon its party's lips, has committed the Conservatives beyond the possibility of recall. The disposition to be generous to Ireland is strengthened by the desire of the Parnellites, and other disaffected Irishmen for such an alliance as will bring about some concessions for that country. It is now pretended, that so long as the House of Lords is overwhelmingly Tory, that party alone can carry through such legislation as will satisfy the Green Isle's representatives. This specie of reasoning, however, is a fallacy, for MR. GLADSTONE carried to completion, against the implacable opposition of the upper house, a series of reforms that revolutionize the ballot. But the disposition is a real one, and it tends to confirm the party now in power in its new departure. That there will be changes almost as positive in its foreign policy is to be expected. Probably the present cabinet is convinced by this time that the English nation does not really desire war. Such conviction must necessarily force it farther and farther from the line of action which it inherited from BEACONSFIELD, but to which only a BEACONSFIELD could win the public consent. On the other side, Liberals must make a change of base. The great reforms in internal affairs which MR. GLADSTONE conceived are established as law. In what direction will the Liberal organization now proceed, to continue its claim to be the party of progress? It seems inevitable that the Liberalizing of the Conservatives should be followed by the Radicalizing of Liberals. The Radical group is the active, aggressive, reliant element of Liberalism to-day. The claim of one of its leaders that all the members of the next Liberal cabinet will be Radicals is something more than an empty boast. Toward precisely that condition the drift of political action is tending. On the subject of English land laws the Liberal of the future must be a Radical. There are other wide possibilities on the programme of a comprehensive system of self government, which come within the sphere of state government, for England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales, toward which a line of agitation will be directed by the Liberal party. The general conclusion to be arrived at is that the coming parties are destined to take but little from those of the past beyond mere party nomenclatures.

BRINGING IN THE OFFENDER.

The Battleford Herald of a recent date announces that since the arrival of Indian Agent RAE, at that place there has been a revolution in Indian affairs, and one that has compelled the most innocent of the Indians and their sympathizers to admit that they may have done something wrong, even if they did not commit any of the murders that brought sorrow in the land. Few people outside have an idea of the enormous amount of property of all kinds that belonged to the Indian department. Much of this was destroyed by the savages in their madness, but much of it was also appropriated by Indians and others to their own use. To recover as much as possible was his first move; to bring the guilty to justice was the next. Warrants were accordingly issued against many who had such property in hand, and they were not all Indians, as well as such of the latter as there was evidence to convict of wrong doing. CAPT. LUCKENS holds court every day, and conducts the preliminary examinations, committing for trial such of the prisoners as the evidence warrants. There are now thirty in the guard room awaiting trial at the coming session of Saskatchewan district court. On Sunday a sepulchral tepee was found at Eagle Hills, in which were nine dead Stonies, and near by was another resting in a tree. All had died of gunshot wounds, but whether they proved fatal on the battle field or on the reserve is not known, nor is it material. The continuous finding of graves and dead and wounded Indians, and the numbers reported dead when inquired for, go to show that our estimate of their loss at Cut Knife creek was not an exaggerated one.

HALL and FOX, the forgers recently convicted in Toronto, are wanted in England for forging checks on a Paris bank. The London police say a gang of thieves and forgers left England last April, and are supposed to have all come this way. The passenger list of the steamer Circassian, which left Liverpool April 30, and arrived at Quebec May 12, reveals that HALL and FOX, who were convicted and sentenced, and BENT and WHITE alias HENDERS, who have just been convicted at Toronto for forgery, were passengers on her. Five or six more of the Circassian's passengers were members of the gang, and it is expected that they will be traced.

A BY-LAW

Respecting the Expenditure of the Municipal Revenue for the Year 1885.

Be it enacted by the Municipal Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

1. It shall be lawful for the Finance Committee of the said Council to arrange for and obtain a credit by way of overdraft upon current account with the Bank of British North America to an amount not exceeding in the whole the sum of $35,000, including the now existing overdraft.

2. All moneys so overdrawn shall be used for the ordinary current expenditure of the said Corporation, and shall be repaid to the said Bank on or before the 31st day of December, 1885, out of the Municipal Revenue of the said Corporation for the current year.

3. This By-Law may be cited as the "Bank Credit By-Law, 1885."

Passed the Municipal Council the 27th day of June, A. D. 1885.

Reconsidered and finally passed the Council the 9th day of June, A. D. 1885.

DRAWING FROM THE NUDE MODEL AT THE ART MUSEUM.

An Hour with Young Boston Artists—The Hard Work of Posing as a Model—How the Students' Work Progresses.

[Boston Transcript.]

Rising midway of the room back to the screen wall is an amphitheatre, the seats ranging tier above tier, and so situated as to give an uninterrupted view, from any point of the semi circle of the posing model. The windows which, when the room was devoted to its original purpose gave it light, are covered with shades of green cloth. Elevated boldly from the ceiling is a sharply-pitched skylight, through which one catches glimpses of the clear blue of the heavens. Below it are hanging screens, by the movement of which the volume and direction of the light are governed. Seated at points of vantage in the amphitheatre are half a dozen young men, in their shirt sleeves or wearing dusters or summer sacks, crayon in hand, they work busily, glancing from the model to the sheet of paper on the easel before them, and back again to the model, as they patiently compare their copy with the original.

The latter is the object of interest to the visitor. The firmness of the pose, the mingled steadiness and ease that characterize it, show the professional. By the time that the visitor has noted these few details of the scene, he has become very sensible of the high temperature maintain in the room. Nor is he, equipped as he is in ordinary street dress minus the overcoat, the only one who feels that the heat is trying. The nude model is in a recumbent position, his left arm bent under his head, and the weight of his body resting on his right side. He is raised above the floor on a rude wooden platform with supporters for his head and shoulders. The platform is covered with mattress rugs, and has the appearance of having been started by some cabinet-maker who intended to make a solid wooden sofa, and then changed it of short and left it a nondescript fit for no other use than that to which it is at present devoted.

Absorbing his pose for a moment, the model turns to the thermometer lying on the rug at his left side, and finding that it registers 85 degrees, opines that a brief rest would do him good. The instructor concurring, he jumps from his couch to the floor and takes a leisurely stroll about the room, glancing at the portraits of himself very much as Adam might have done had art entered Eden. The model is a young man of good muscular development, fulfilling the requirement of firmness of flesh without hardness, and withal of hands me shape. Invigorated by this promenade, which has the good effect of limbering the muscles stiffened by long posing, he skips gayly back to his wooden couch and resumes his former position.

The fatigue that posing occasions is something hardly to be realized by those whose ideas of it are gained from experiences at the photographer's, or from taking an attitude for some sketching friend. Frequent rests counteract in some degree the fatigue of posing, but the physical strength necessary to endure it is not so common as is generally supposed, and is one of the first requirements. Without it the fine form and intelligent appreciation of effect are of no avail to the would be model, and are simply tantalizing to the artist, who can scarcely compose himself for his work before the artist decomposes everything by yielding to fatigue, either changing position for one more comfortable, or demanding a rest.

The difficulties to be encountered in mastering the art of posing should be understood by all who enter upon it for a living. At the present time, when many young people—driven from regular work by dull times or deprived of spending money they have hitherto enjoyed—are seeking employment as models, under the impression that if it is not very lucrative it is easy, warnings of the trials it involves should not pass unheeded.

To return to class work, the students work away with a persistence and industry which gives the visitor a restring sense of the laborious nature of the artist's apprenticeship. Professor Grundmann moves from easel to easel, pointing out to the student errors that need correction; here an arm too meagre, there a shade is a trifle too heavy; here again the light has not been caught and fixed exactly as it should be. Quietly the work goes on, interrupted only by the ticking of the clock, the half-whispered instructions of the professor, and the soft sweep of crayons over papers.

Gradually the time passes until the hour given up to the lesson has expired. Then the model jumps down from his couch, stretches himself wearily for an instant and dives behind the screen which serves as a robing-room. The class group themselves about the professor for a chat on their labors, and gradually drop away after reckoning up their impediments. He

THE TOBACCO HABIT.

The Universal "Rankering"—Growth of the Cigar Business—Open Air Treatment.

["Oath" in Boston Globe.]

The tobacco habit is one of the forms of both sedative and stimulation which seem to be regarded by the rudest as well as the most accomplished beings. Something in man impels him to be happier.

The rude Mexican pounds the century plant till he can get fermentation in it, and then he drinks himself drunk. The methodical Chinaman who has a duty for every day in the year, and saves his money better than the miser, had the citadel of his nature stormed by opium, and against the command of his government and his religion, he sits down and smokes himself into stupefaction. The Turk, freed definitely from liquor by his religion, tortures himself between the harem and the pipe. The English beer drinker comes to a place where malt and hops will no longer satisfy, and he must drug his beer to make it palatable, and the public house which he frequents obliges him in that respect by opening the bung-hole and dropping in tobacco or pepper or something sufficiently strong.

Nothing is more remarkable in the United States than the growth of the cigar business. Before the rebellion, Havana manufactured the best and probably the most of our cigars. After the duties were made high the cigar-making business was transferred within our revenue jurisdiction, first to Key West, and then to New York. The war itself was provocative of the smoking habit as it multiplied excitement and left hundreds of thousands of men in tents waiting for battle, and there they smoked because they had no other form of enjoyment. So the growth of tobacco was introduced into our northern states, and now the north raises the best smoking tobacco for cigars, and the tobacco interest in some of the western states amounts to millions per annum. There are said to be 50,000 persons in New York rolling cigars or stripping the leaf. In almost every little village there are cigar factories.

The Germans and Spanish were formerly the most smokeful of nations, but we are close upon them now, although it is common in this country to find men who never smoked a cigar, and I have often noticed that some men who drank to excess had never put a cigar in their mouths. The drunkard fancies that he is to save his life, notwithstanding the liquor, by rejecting some other bad habit. The best cure for both liquor and tobacco is the open air, and not the open air of cities so much as that of the country. Country people are inclined to chew tobacco instead of smoking it. A ride of thirty miles through the open country is a cure, in part, for both liquor and tobacco. Grant has kept this open-air treatment up nearly all his life. Either on horseback or in a carriage he has ridden constantly, and down to a very late period, and his trip around the world, in steamers, vessels and vehicles, gave him inspiration of the same sort.

Test of Pronunciation.

[Exchange.]

The following rather curious piece of composition was recently placed upon the blackboard at a teacher's institute, and a prize of a Webster's Dictionary offered to any person who could read it and pronounce every word correctly. The book was not carried off, however, as twelve was the lowest number of mistakes in pronunciation made:

"A sacrilegious son of Bellal, who suffered from bronchitis, having exhausted his finances, in order to make good the deficit, resolved to ally himself to a comely, lenient, and docile young lady of the Malay or Caucasian race. He accordingly purchased a calliope, and a coral necklace of a chameleon hue, and securing a suite of rooms at a principal hotel, he engaged the head waiter as his confidant. He then dispatched a letter of the most unexceptionable caligraphy extant, inviting the young lady to matinee. She revolted at the idea, refused to consider herself sacrificable to his desires, and sent a polite note of refusal, on receiving which he procured a carbine and a bowie-knife, said that he would not forge fetters hymeneal with the queen, went to an isolated spot, severed his jugular vein, and discharged the contents of his carbine into his body. The debris was removed by the coroner."

The mistakes in pronunciation were made on the following words: sacrilegious, bellal, bronchitis, exhausted, finances, deficit, comely, lenient, docile, Malay, calliope, chameleon, coral, suite, caligraphy, matinee, sacrificable, carbine, hymeneal, isolated, suite, jugular and debris.

Qualifications for the Stage.

["Betsy B." in The Argonaut.]

To the "stage-struck girl" who sends a note asking the advice which no one ever takes, and who urgently and rather defiantly requests me to put over my own name what I consider the necessary qualifications for a young girl about to go upon the stage, I make answer:

A strong physique;
An unimpaired digestion;
A slender figure;
A marked face;
Strong features;
A carrying voice;
A lack of real feeling;
An abundance of pretended feeling;
Much magnetism;
Great fascination of manner;
Purity of speech;
Elocution to a degree;
A general knowledge of history;
A good general education;
A general knowledge of costuming;
A practical knowledge of economy in dress;
An artistic knowledge of the effects of distance;
Considerable business faculty;
Unflagging industry;
Undaunted ambition;
An utter lack of sensitiveness;
A capacity for taking pains;
An absolute and undisputed devotion to the theatre;
An unwedded life;
An ability to distinguish criticism from abuse or fulsome gush;
A readiness to profit thereby;
Some genius at advertising;
A quickness at seizing opportunities;
An adept at making yourself necessary;
A well-defined specialty;
A good memory;
Quick study;
Good luck.

Kindly, But Firmly.

[Arkansaw Traveler.]

A merchant who had repeatedly dunned a man, sent him a bill of the amount due. In addition to the necessary rule and figure work, the merchant added the following:

"I am becoming tired of the indifference with which you treat this matter, and I desire to hear from this bill at once."

Several days afterward the merchant received the following, written on a postal card: "Accept my thanks for the bill which you were kind enough to send. I have never troubled you about the matter. When I owe a man it is my disposition to treat him kindly, but firmly. I never hang around him. Well, whenever you haven't anything else to do, send me another bill."

On the Farm.

[New York Times.]

Boston girl to Uncle James, a farmer: Do you like living on a farm, Uncle James?

Uncle James—Yes, I like it very much.

Boston girl—I suppose it is nice enough in the glad summer time, but to go out in the cold and snow to gather winter apples and harvest mixter wheat I imagine might be anything but pleasant.

HENRY A. WISE, OF VIRGINIA.

The Statesman and the Teamster—The "Only" and the Haunted Grove.

[Cor. Baltimore American.]

Around the name of Henry A. Wise, the Virginia statesman, politician and duellist, many good anecdotes cluster. Here is a true one, which has never seen print before. As every one knows, Wise was a very positive man, positive in speech, action and sentiment, and he never hesitated to blurt out his opinions with all the force of his overabundant energy. He was a great lover of horses, and he always interfered when he saw an animal being maltreated. One day he was riding horseback in Virginia. He wore a showy pair of yellow leggings. The roads were bad, and presently he came across a four-horse team stalled in the mud. The driver—a big fellow with the strength of an ox—instead of tarousing off some of the load and lightening the wagon, was unmercifully belaboring the horses with a big whip.

Wise stood it as long as he could, but his pity for the poor beast was too great, and he exclaimed: "Why in —— don't you throw off some of that wood! Any fool ought to see that those horses can't pull such a load out of that mud." And for about two minutes Mr. Wise poured upon the teamster a torrent of malediction. The teamster never dreamed. He waited until the congressman was through, and then, turning his head with a sideways contemptuous glance, he snarled: "Look ahere, mister yaller legs, I know my business, and if you don't git along from here purty durned quick, I'll haul you off that horse and stick you head foremost in that yere mud so far down that you won't have room to kick, much less to holler." The teamster was large and strong, and he meant it. Mr. Wise saw all this, and he very discreetly passed on.

The home and birthplace of Wise was the eastern shore of Virginia. His old residence is the most conspicuous building along the Occocock river. The river makes a horseshoe bend around an elevated piece of ground several acres in extent, and on this land the house is situated. It is a stiff-looking building of brick fronted by a grove of noble oaks and flanked by a number of sharp-roofed outhouses that look like exaggerated chicken coops.

The name of the place is "Only." The natives explain the derivation of this name in a curious way. They say that whenever Wise was booked for a big speech he always rehearsed it over and over again out in the grove at a time when everybody else was in bed. His strong resonant voice rang out clearly in the night air, and some of the superstitious colored people got the idea that the grove was "haunted." They clung to this belief until they found that the noise proceeded from the orator's rehearsals. Mr. Wise greatly enjoyed his life in his quiet home, and was much attached to his neighbors.

Turkish Executions.

[New York Times.]

"Now all these things," continued my informant, "and how the traitorous pasha had been the cause of our disgrace, Gordon Pasha had spied from the top of his house. He was much grieved; and when the wicked pashas, who were both guilty, were brought bound, as I said, hand and foot before him, he spake never a word except, 'Away with them!' He was reading holy writ at the time. They were tried by court-martial and sentenced to death. Seven days afterward they were executed in the inner yard, near the large square of the prison. They were hewn in pieces by a halberd. I saw the execution, so it is of no use your saying 'they were shot.'

"I tell you, according to Turkish military law, a military traitor is always sentenced to be cut to pieces. The two were bound up against the wall by chains and rings. Two soldiers armed with sharp hatchets approach them from out of the ring of a square we had formed. The prisoners' crimes were read out and their sentence. A hundred soldiers were present; some senior officers but not Gordon Pasha. The senior officer read out: 'Executioners perform sentence on the traitors!' Immediately these advanced close and lopped off first their arms above the elbows, then the legs above the knees, then cut their bodies in twain: thus decapitated them. They died not till they were cut asunder; then their heads fell on their breasts, and they expired with a hideous yell. Surely their fate was deserved. I can not say whether Gordon Pasha knew of this manner of execution. I tell you this is the Turkish mode of punishing military traitors, and it is a just punishment."

Paid on Sight.

[Detroit Free Press.]

"You see, captain, my son vas in Milwaukee. He goes cafer ders last vheek to see his uncle."

"Yes, Mr. Dunder."

"He takes feefty dollar mit him, but maybe he plays pool und goes mit the opera und has extra expense. Before he goes avhay he says he draws on me it he vhant."

"I see."

"Vhell, two days ago a chap comes into my place und says he has a sight draft for $35. My poy Shake vhas dead proke und can't come home. Captain, how vhas it abouts sight drafts?"

"Way, you pay 'em on sight."

"What is?"

"At the bank."

"Dot's vhat I tells der oldt vhomans, but she says I must pay to der man, und so I didt. Dis morning Shake vhas home. He says he does draw on me for nothings."

"Well, you've been beaten again."

"Vell, I vhas not so bad beaten as I vhas. Dot vhas a sight draft on me, und I vhas paid on dot."

"Well."

"I know how I get safen on dot."

"How?"

"Der oldt vhomans has $200 in der bank und Shake has $60. I draws some sight drafts on 'em und pays myself back. If you hear some rows in my place to-day you knows how it vhas. I vhas doing a banking business."

The Out-Doors Crop.

Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.

Constables are never stacked or taken into account in some parts of the country. In a few places yet the corn itself is never husked or harvested, but is left standing, while cattle and hogs are turned into the fields in winter to help themselves. In Virginia 10 per cent. of the crop, or nearly 3,000,000 bushels, was left in the field over winter last year; in Tennessee, 5 per cent. or 2,388,000 bushels; while Kentucky and Ohio had each nearly 6,000,000 bushels. Illinois left 17,11,000 bushels unharvested. Thrifty Kansas left 2 per cent. of her crop, or 2,103,000 bushels, ungathered, while in the whole United States 119,811,000 bushels were left to the mercy of winter weather under this primitive form of husbandry.

How Indians Catch Eagles.

[Colorado Letter.]

Among our Indians the most highly prized article of adornment is eagle feathers. They not only use them for making head-dresses and ornamenting their blankets, but use them as money in the purchase of fire-water, tobacco and other necessaries of Indian life. Among the Sioux the mode of catching them is interesting. After holding an eagle dance the "braves" repair to the mountains where each digs a pit and covers it lightly with reeds and grass. A piece of tough buffalo meat done up in a wolf-skin is laid on the pit. After the sun is risen the eagle swoops down, alighting upon the wolf-skin which he begins to tear. The Indian who is concealed in the pit reaches out stealthily, seizes the bird by its legs and drags it into the pit, where he crushes its breast with his knees. The return of a successful party is the occasion of great rejoicing, and the plumage of our bird of liberty graces the top-knot of a greasy Indian buck. "To whist least ones" do.

Newport's Old Boil.

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water.

All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters: I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

Poverty and Suffering.

I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring.

I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost. I know it. —A WORKINGMAN.

—In the public works account, chargeable to income, the British Columbia penitentiary was voted the sum of $47,500, and the Vancouver quarantine station and out-buildings $5200. For general repairs and improvements to harbors and rivers in this province $2000.

—Says the Seattle Chronicle: Such are the uncertainties of the issue of base ball matches that even the supposed invincible are easily conquerable. The Portlands were well-backed by friends, who now mourn the loss of ducats, left on Beacon hill.

—On the 30th ult., Sir John Macdonald submitted to the House a return to an address of the 27th April, last, for copies of all correspondence and orders in council in any way bearing upon the subject of purchase, or offers of purchase of Indian reserve lands in British Columbia, of a date subsequent to the 1st June, 1882.

—Justice McLean has issued a batch of summonses to cab-drivers for an infraction of the provincial law against fast driving over bridges. On the 1st of July, it is alleged, the cabmen drove rapidly over the Point Ellice bridge, and nine of them will be called to account therefore on Monday next.

—The Free Press states that William H. Johns, a miner, formerly working in the Nanaimo colliery, left by the steamship Wilmington on Saturday, and that many business men are mourning because the balance is heavily on the wrong side of the ledger. If we may be permitted to perpetrate a bull, we would say that all the absconders from the province do not live in Victoria.

A MONOPOLY IN LIQUOR.

The Ontario Distillers' Pool Succeed in their Legislation.

As announced in yesterday's Times the government has succeeded in carrying through the Commons a bill entitled "An Act to amend the Inland Revenue Act of 1883," which amongst other clauses contains the following:

"After the first day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, no spirits subject to excise shall be entered for consumption which have not been manufactured for at least twelve months; and after the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and ninety, no such spirits shall be entered for consumption which have not been manufactured for at least two years."

The result of the passing of this act is to perpetuate a gigantic monopoly in direct opposition to the spirit and well understood wishes of the people, enabling the monopoly to charge extravagant figures and realize fabulous profits on their investments, and add to the millions they have already accumulated. There are only five distilleries in Canada, and these are all located in Ontario. The endeavor to break that monopoly would involve an expenditure of millions. The idea that spirits cannot be fit for consumption except two years after they have been manufactured is too transparent.

According to the old system of distillation, this view might be accepted, but the framers of the bill must have known that with the new ways of working which have been indicated by science and experience, there may be easily and safely found a substitute to the purification by effect of time. By certain processes which, by the way, are everywhere in use, the products of distillation may be made as pure and wholesome as if they had gone through the two years warehousing above mentioned.

For some days past a few were aware that a change in the import duties on liquors, sugars, and tobacco was probable, for instructions had been received at the Inland Revenue Office here to refuse entries for withdrawing from the bonded warehouses. This morning the customs officials were notified of the following changes that went into force to-day. the duty now to be charged is: Brandy, $2 per gallon instead of $1.45; a rise of 55 cents per gallon. All other spirits $1.75 instead of $1.32½, an advance of $42½ cents per gallon. tobacco, 30 per cent instead of 20 as heretofore. The excise duty is not given, but it will correspond to the above. All refined sugars now are charged 1c. per lb. and 35 per cent ad valorem instead of 1c., 32½c. ad valorem, and ⅝c., 27½c. and ½c., according to color.

During the forenoon today a number of heavy transactions took place amongst dealers. Those who secured goods at old rates are understood to have netted fairly well on their purchases.

THE BRICKYARD CASE.

The Kempster Bros.' Difficulties—Injunction Discharged.

In the Supreme Court yesterday, Larkin, Connolly & Co. moved to have the injunction issued at the instance of Kempster Bros., and restraining them from using the brick machines and brickyard recently taken possession of by them, removed. Mr. T. Davie appeared for Larkin, Connolly & Co., and Mr. J. Stuart Yates for Kempster Bros. A number of affidavits had been filed, of an extremely contradictory nature. Mr. Connolly, being sworn, said he had urged Kempster to furnish brick more rapidly; he agreed to give him 25 cents per 100 extra for bricks furnished on scows; they had never supplied sufficient bricks, and had not managed the business correctly, having paid more attention to fixing up their offices elaborately than manufacturing brick; he was willing to stand by any verbal or written promise that he had made. Mr. Humber gave evidence as to the capacity of the yard, and said the machines employed were useless in this country on account of the stones and roots in the clay. Mr. C. W. Kempster deposed that he was now prepared to fill the contract of 40,000 bricks per day; he had used every exertion to supply the quantity required; were having two more machines built by Wilson Bros.; would require half a million brick for the contract they had with Mr. Erb, which was for $16,000; $3500 had been advanced on this contract, and exclusive of that they owed $5000. Mr. T. L. Kempster also gave evidence of their ability to meet their obligations, and admitted to an indebtedness of $2500 to Mr. Sehl. The decision of the court, given to-day, was that the injunction be discharged, which will leave Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. masters of the situation.

THE W. C. T. U.

Election of Officers—Thanks to the Secretary.

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon the following officers were elected: President, Mrs D McNaughton; secretary, Mrs D. Jenkins; treasurer, Mrs O A Sargison; first vice-president, for Presbyterian church, Mrs Flett; second, for Methodist church, Mrs D Spencer; third, for Baptist church, Mrs E P Hamilton; fourth, for St. Andrew's, Mrs D McLean; fifth, for Reformed Episcopal, Mrs C Fraser; superintendent of young women's work, Mrs Spofford; gaol work, Mrs D Spencer; hospital work, Mrs Flett; evangelistic, Mrs Elford; scientific instruction in schools, Mrs D Jenkins; literature, Miss Pollard; socials, Mrs Morley. The following resolution was unanimously adopted: Resolved, that it is due to the able and indefatigable Secretary, Mrs. D. Jenkins, that special mention should be made of the valuable services rendered by her during the year —services that can be appreciated at their full value only by those who know how much activity and success in executive function are dependent upon the systematizing power and energy of the Secretary; and this meeting regrets to learn that the state of the funds does not at present admit of a substantial addition to the warm thanks which are hereby tendered. The meeting adjourned until Thursday next.

The Nazgaistic Journal.

The Times, we feel sure, has convinced the discerning public—or at least all who have had any doubt on the point—that the editor of the Colonist is the champion of pharisaical canting hypocrites. The Times will not do him an injustice by confining his claim in that respect to British Columbia, as it believes that he is just as much entitled to the championship of the world as Hanlan was for years to that of the "spoons." The editor of the Colonist is possessed of more cheek than even he has ever got credit for, when he takes The Times to task for publishing an advertisement of an hotel duly and properly licensed by the municipal authorities of this city, after having been guilty of publishing in his morally pure (?) newspaper, from the 10th day of July to the 10th day of August, 1883, inclusive, the following card:

"HATTIE P. MORGAN,
321 Sutter Street,
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA."

"Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

[While the columns of The Times are open for the discussion of questions of public interest, to correspondents, it must be understood that it does not necessarily endorse, nor coincide with, the sentiments expressed by writers in the columns.]

Land in Lillooet.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—As you seem to have large numbers of new arrivals coming into Victoria looking for homesteads, I think it would be well to send a few of them up this way, as there is room in Lillooet district for a large number yet, and the climate the best in the province. There are large tracts of land on Pemberton Meadows and on the Frazer River benches from Lillooet to Chilicotan, a distance of over 200 miles, waiting for some one to take them up. There are also many old settlers that would like to sell out cheap, if there was a little money in sight. The crops look the best they have for years. There has been more rain than any season since 1863. There is considerable gold coming out of the Bridge River mines, but the water is very high at present. If the mines were two or three thousand miles away, there would be far more excitement about them.

T. J. C.

Lillooet, July 4th, 1885.

The Local Government and the Clinton Ring.

Clinton, B. C., July 4.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Knowing that your columns are at all times open to the people for the ventilation of grievances, I send you the following: Six years ago one J. F. Smith came to teach school at Clinton, and at that time a total stranger. It was reported that he was teaching only on sufferance, having but a temporary certificate. Much surprise was expressed when it was found that he did not go to Victoria for examination. The question arose, who is this man that he should not comply with the law? The only explanation was that he is the correspondent of the Columbian newspaper, said to be the property of Hon. John Robson, and his brother. Be that as it may, this man Smith has had the Clinton school six years, and has never been below to stand his examination. Last year, 1884, one of the trustees was so disgusted that he was obliged to resign, and Dr. McGuire was put in his place. The first dirty work he was asked to perform was to apply to the educational department for another temporary certificate, on the grounds of economy. Of course the certificate came, and no questions were asked. As soon as the examination was over Mr. Smith went to Victoria and remained until his vacation was up; he had forgotten all about economy. Now mark the contrast. About a month ago the good people of Lillooet asked their junior representative to apply to the head of the department to grant a temporary certificate to Mr. Campbell, who is a perfect gentleman, and has just sent for his wife and family to come from the east at considerable expense. The answer was

CAMPBELL MUST ATTEND EXAMINATION.

Now Mr. Smith does not claim to have either wife or child; has been in his present position six years, and is allowed to go scott free without examination of any kind. Lillooet.

[If the facts are as stated by our correspondent the government and school superintendent are censurable for so gross a violation of the law to shield a supporter. The matter demands an investigation. Ed.

Barkerville School Examinations.

Our Barkerville correspondent sends us an account of the school examination which took place on the 24th ultimo, in the theater there, the school house being too small for the occasion. In grammar, arithmetic, English history and geography, James Kelly, Thomas Munro, Wm. Banon, Jennie Kelly and Anna Brown, greatly distinguished themselves. In the second and third classes Jennie Munro, Alice and Lizzie Banon showed considerable progress during the year. Mr. Bannerman, the teacher, is a favorite with the pupils and to his untiring zeal is due the high standard to which the Barkerville school has attained. Friday was set apart for music and singing Miss Kelly presiding at the organ and W. Jones, Esq., leading in the singing, so that the examination was enlivened with the sweet melody of song, and rendered a complete success. If the design of the public school is to educate, to draw out the faculties, to teach the children to think for themselves, an i to render an intelligent submission, not only to parents, but to civil authorityity, to the dictates of good right reason, and to the eternal principles of right, then the design is being accomplished in the Barkerville school for both in their studies and in their deportment the children will compare favorably with any other school in the province.

Land in Lillooet.

A correspondent in to-day's Times directs the attention of agriculturists from the east, who are arriving here in search of land, to the immense area of available country not yet taken up in the Lillooet district. The climate, he says, is the best in the province, which it will be no treason to the state, on the part of a Victorian, to partially dissent from, although all testimony goes to show that it is one of the choicest unoccupied locations on the mainland. Many farmers have arrived in Victoria this spring, and because Alberni would not suit them on account of its isolation, and no other homesteads were to be procured within a few miles of the city, became disgusted and left—perhaps for the country's good. All the agriculture lands of the interior will some day, not very distant, be occupied, and then it will be very valuable.

For Alaska.

The Ancon will sail for Alaska from Port Townsend this afternoon, with a large number of tourists, among whom are U. S. Senator John P. Miller, of California; Joseph N. Dolph, of Oregon; Messrs. Chauncey Taylor, J G Turney, A P Hotaling and T Spring, of California, all '49ers; Chas Warren Stoddard, the writer, Mr Zahm, of University of Indiana, and Mr Bowen and niece, of Pennsylvania; Rev A P Graves and wife, Mrs Foote, Mrs and Miss Miller, Mrs Hotaling, Mr Failing, of Oregon; Mr Geo W Bliss, Mr Howe, wife and children, of New York; Mr E B Crawford, A C McMillan, H C Ross, E Hill, A Caska and others.

The Victoria Club.

This club is starting under very favorable auspices, one hundred and twenty-five names having been handed in already. At a late meeting permanent officers were appointed as follows: A. McLean, president; Wm. Dalby, vice-president; and Messrs. A. B. Gray, R. Wolfenden, J. S. Yates, M. B. Atkinson, L. G. McQuade, A. K. Green, H. Brown and John Nicolles, committee of management. Messrs. A. E. Green, D. W. Higgins and W. Heathorn will act as trustees for the purpose of holding property in trust for the club. All the arrangements will be perfected by the end of the present month, when the new rooms corner of Broad and Yates streets, will be furnished and ready for the use of the members.

The Oriental Restaurant will h ere after be kept open day and night.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

James Hart, drunk; fined $5 or one week.

John F. Hughes, charged with being of unsound mind. The superintendent said that the wife of the defendant was the complainant, and he asked for a remand until Monday to permit of a medical examination. Remanded accordingly.

Geo. Sufferin and Thos. Martin, charged with breaking into the premises of Thos. Thompson on the night of the 8th of June, and stealing five double barrelled guns, valued at $175, two rifles, $45, seven pistols, $50, one package of cartridges and two boxes of caps, $1.50. Mr. Thompson testified that on the evening of the 8th the guns were in their places in the windows of the store, and on the following morning, when opening out, he missed a number of guns and pistols and found the back door had been forced open. Foot prints were discovered in ashes on the ground in the rear of the premises, and also marks made by the butts of the guns. Officer Lindsay, testified that he had arrested the two prisoners on the Indian reserve, between eleven and twelve yesterday; they were lying concealed in the bush at the time; when taken to gaol the boy said he had stopped at his sisters on the previous night and afterwards said that he had stopped outside; Martin also said that he had stopped outside; had examined Mr. Thompson's premises after arresting the prisoners; took the prisoner Sufferin down and found that his shoe corresponded with the marks in the ashes. At this stage of the investigation, the Chief of Police asked for a remand until Tuesday next, which was granted.

PROVINCIAL POLICE COURT.

(Before Alex. McLean, and Wm. Dalby, J. P.'s)

Richard Gibbs, on remand from the city police court, charged with having assaulted Captain Moore, was found guilty and fined $20 and $5 costs, or in default fourteen days imprisonment.

LABATT'S LONDON PALE ALE.

Highest Awards, Philadelphia, 1876; Canada, 1876; Australia, 1877; Paris, 1878. Connoisseurs and Lovers of Fine Ale will enquire at the Hotels and Saloons for the above, which is now offered, for the first time, in this market.

The Park Invaded.

A gang of Chinamen, occupying twelve tents, have taken possession of a portion of Beacon Hill Park, and are not only an eye-sore but a source of danger to the residents of that locality. Their fires are burning on Cook street, and the park property is being ransacked, and the trees destroyed, by the invaders. Chinatown has probably become filled to overflowing, and the surplus population have betaken themselves to the pleasure grounds of the city, as much through necessity as choice. The authorities should remove them at once.

Real Estate Sale.

Tomorrow, (Saturday), Messrs. J. P. Davies & Co., at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, on the grounds, will hold an auction sale of city lots in Regent Park, being subdivisions of lots numbers one to eighteen on the corner of the Cadboro Bay road and St. Charles street. The property is beautifully located for villa and suburban residences, commands a fine view of the city and surrounding country. The terms of sale are liberal; the unpaid balance of the purchase consideration will be allowed to remain for one year without interest.

Arrested for Non-Payment of Taxes.

Officer Booth, of Nanaimo, last night arrested Tai Chang Yuen, the wholesale Chinese merchant of Cormorant street, on the charge that he had neglected or refused to pay the provincial tax due by him on a number of Chinamen employed on the Island railway. The amount involved is about $700. Tai Chang Yuen went to Nanaimo with the officer this morning.
